Description:

From the Back Cover JavaServer Pages From Scratch teaches beginning users about the many techniques involved in JavaServer Pages by building an online auction house with an events calendar. In addition to discussing the planning and designing of an application, the book will also cover development of forms, validating data, registering new users, servlets, sessions management, enterprise javabeans, cookies and wireless protocol.

About the Author Maneesh Sahu serves as a contributing author for XML, Java and servlets to webreview.com and webtechniques.com. He is a Sun Certified Java Programmer. Maneesh is currently working for IBM on the Websphere Enterprise Customer Engagement team where he helps customers to deploy enterprise applications using Component Broker. Prior to this he worked on the Alphabeans team at IBM where he created an XML Viewer and XML beans that are available today on alphaworks. Maneesh was co-author for "Developing Enterprise Javabeans using VisualAge for Java" and "Deploying Enterprise Javabeans on IBM Servers," both IBM Redbooks.
